FESTIVAL OF SONG BEGINS THIS EVENING

SWEET-VOICED SONS OF NORWAY HAVE CITY KEY

O. R. Skaar and Pres. T. L. Dahl Deliver Addresses of Welcome at Reception

IMPOSING PARADE THIS AFTERNOON

Eighteen Big Societies Represented in Marching Columns---First Grand Concert Occurs This Evening---Thousand Here Opening Day

The great singing festival of the Northwest Scandinavian Singers' association, to elevate, as President Theodore L. Dahl expressed it, the old Norwegian songs, was officially opened at 11:40 today in the circuit court room with addresses of welcome to the delegates by Attorney O. R. Skaar of the executive committee, and President T. L. Dahl of La Crosse, head of the organization.

It is estimated a thousand visitors are already in the city on the opening day.

Trains scheduled to arrive at 11 a. m., brought large delegations from St. Paul, Minneapolis, Benson and other Minnesota towns and cities. The delegates and visitors were welcomed at the depot and formed in marching order. Headed by Dana's military band, the procession marched to the county courthouse where the opening ceremonies were held.

"The executive committee," said Attorney Skaar, "was composed of members of the Normanna Sangerkor and we have made effort to provide for your entertainment and comfort. We feel a little proud of what we have done and we believe you will enjoy yourself while you are in La Crosse--the most cosmopolitan city in the United States."

Mr. Skaar spoke at length on the advantages of La Crosse. He said that its citizenship was composed of the most highly respected people from every country on the globe and said that all had taken a tremendous interest in the meeting of the singers. He pointed to the schools, churches and manufacturing interests here. He called La Crosse a city of homes and pointed to the lumbering village of a few years ago, and the great growing city of today.

"The committee has done what it could for your entertainment," he said, "but if you do not find everything as it should be you must bear with us. You are a race of people who, in the olden days, were not accustomed to have things placed on a table before you--you went to meet them and to battle for them. I can say little regarding singing. God did not make me a singer, and I do not believe I blame God for it. (Laughter.)"

"Everybody in La Crosse believes this is the most beautiful city on the continent," said the speaker. "We may be wrong, but it expresses our love for our homes. La Crosse is a city of homes.

speaker. (Laughter.) "I am not joking. I want you to visit our breweries, to see five of the greatest, cleanest breweries in the world. There is no Chicago packing-house dirt here. (Applause.) And their product is unexcelled either in the old world or the new."

The speaker forecasted a great future for the river as a waterway and an artery of commerce and declared that La Crosse was the natural jobbing point for the entire northwest, represented by the delegates present.

In conclusion Attorney Skaar explained that Mayor William Torrance was unavoidably absent and that he could not speak, but had commissioned him to turn over the city's key to President Dahl and the singers. (Applause.)

Accepts Hospitality
Upon behalf of the association President Dahl accepted the key to the city and assured the delegates that it would unlock any door and every heart in La Crosse.

After a musical selection by the Normanna Sangerkor President Dahl said: "While I was in Sioux Falls at the last festival they told me that the police force had been blindfolded. Our city has done better. It has paralyzed our police force. And if any of you get in 'a pinch' just let me know and I will bring the key to your relief. Mr. Dahl said that the object of the saengerfest was to elevate the old Norwegian and Swedish songs. He explained that in order to permit all visiting delegates to sing, the extra matinee would be given at the auditorium tomorrow afternoon.

Parade This Afternoon
Attorney James Thompson informed the convention that all delegates should appear at the market square, where the line of march would form, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. He also informed the delegates of the auto ride which has been prepared for the ladies tomorrow morning.

The Parade
At 2 o'clock this afternoon the singers formed in a line of march and paraded the principal streets. The singers were in their respective societies. The principals rode in carriages at the head of the line and after them came the various societies. The following is the order of march:

Platoon of police.
Dana's band.
Minnehaha Mandskor, Sioux Falls.
Grieg Sangforening, Canton.
Lauren, Decorah.
Normanna, Duluth.
Nordraak, Madison, S. D.
Bjorne, Grand Forks.
Ljon, Fergus Falls.
Gauken, Nasset, Ia.
Kreutz's band.
Greg Mandskor, Fort Dodge.

WEATHER BUREAU AT FIFTH & CASS

Zeisler Site Selected and Large $12,000 Bldg. Will be Put up

Congressman John J. Esch this morning received information from Washington that the Zeisler site, corner Fifth and Cass streets, had been selected by the secretary of agriculture for the new weather bureau. The site costs $3,500 and one of the larger type of buildings, costing probably $12,000, is to be erected there this summer by the government.

The letter received by Congressman Esch follows:

U. S. Dept. Agriculture.
Hon. John J. Esch, M. C.
Washington, D. C.
My Dear Mr. Esch:

I have before me the report from our inspector regarding the location of the weather bureau building in La Crosse and have decided to recommend to the secretary of agriculture that a lot on the corner of Fifth and Cass streets, owned by Mr. Zeisler, be selected. It is the most eligible of any locations offered. The price is $3,500 and the dimensions are 100 by 120 feet. We have decided to put in one of the larger sized buildings in La Crosse because this is a station from which maps are issued and it is necessary for us to have larger and better grounds and quarters than at a simple observation station. We think that La Crosse, because of its commercial importance and its river interests, and its availability as a center from which distribution can be made, justifies our actions. We shall begin work as soon as we can let the contracts and shall endeavor to make our service of more value to the community than you represent.

Yours very truly,
WILLIS L. MOORE,
Chief U. S. Weather Bureau.

DOUMA BITTER IN ATTACK ON GOVT.

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)
ST. PETERSBURG, July 6.—The douma this afternoon discussed the Bialystok massacres. The debate was bitter and the government was attacked. Deputy Jacobson declared the government official story as insidious incitement to bloodshed. This is the text for his followers.

FINDS ALTON GUILTY OF REBATING ON EIGHT OF COUNTS

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)

CHICAGO, Ill., July 6.—Federal Judge Landis this morning sustained the first eight counts of the indictment charging the Alton and its agents, John N. Faithorn and Fred A. Wann, with giving rebates to Swartzchild & Sulzberger, packers.

The court declared the payment of a dollar trackage fees for every car taken over the S. & S. tracks clearly a rebate in violation of the Elkins law.

The jury was instructed to find accordingly. It declared the last two counts regarding the repayment of passenger fares faulty and ordered it dismissed.

New Yorkers Escape Prison.
NEW YORK, July 6.—The federal court today quashed indictments as far as a conspiracy charge was concerned, against the railroad accused of giving rebates to the sugar trust.

This is because the Elkins law is not retroactive. Other indictments charging rebating are upheld. Now a prison sentence is impossible and if guilty the railways will only be fined.

THAW DETECTIVES SHADOW OFFICERS

Proof Found Today That White Dined Mrs. Thaw After her Marriage

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)
NEW YORK, July 6.—Mrs. Thaw visited her husband today.

His wife's visits are Thaw's only pleasure in the prison. He is getting fatter although his physical condition is much improved.

The woman went to her attorney's from the jail. Garven says he has been unable to find any evidence of the affidavit alleged to have been made by Evelyn before her marriage.

White Dined Her
One has appeared defending White. He is John Burns, White's night chauffeur who drove White's electric hansom.

He said White dined Mrs. Thaw since her marriage and that the woman used his rig.

He declares White was accustomed to loan his hansom to women in bad weather, but always rode alone except when accompanied by his wife, son or club friends.

He declares White was a good living man with too kind a heart.

Thaw's Detectives Everywhere
Charles Hartnett, private secretary of Stanford White, is being examined by Attorney Garvan. Hartnett is said to possess full knowledge of all of White's private affairs.

Detective Berghoff declares Thaw's interests have detectives shadowing all of White's friends and every attaché of the district attorney's office.

Didn't Introduce White

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 6.—Mrs. Holman, mother of Evelyn Nesbit, denies she ever introduced her daughter to White or any theatrical person. She always accompanied her because the girl was determined to go and she would not permit her to go alone.

NOT DEFECTIVE WIRING

It is stated that the small fire in the lathing of the welcome arch Tuesday evening was not caused by defective wiring as stated, but from water getting into upturned sockets from the continuous raining, which caused an arc, when the water became heated, and burned into the lathing below the sockets.

BONES IMBEDDED IN GLID ROCK

Perhaps Centuries Old, re Found Today in Farm of P. W. Bradley

What will likely prove a most notable find of prehistoric skeleton was made today in creek upon farm of P. W. Bradley, in Chipmoucoulee, nine miles south of here, Mr. Bradley and a tin assistant.

Several feet below the surface the water in the creek, imbedded in the stone, a skull, some unknown species of monster was found, together with what looks like a tusk. Both were completely petrified and to all indications had been in their position for thousands of years.

The skull, instead of being long, like the head of a horse, is short and wide, measuring at its widest point more than three feet. A great socket left in the rear seems to have been for the bones of the spinal column. The portion of the skull found weighed twelve pounds and indications are that it would have weighed about 100 pounds complete.

The tusk, or horn, or whatever the other bone is, is much heavier and is four feet long. It runs to a sort of point at one end and is equipped with a ball joint at the large end. It is curved like a boomerang, and inclined to be flat.

The bones were brought to the city today and will be examined by archaeologists, after information has been sent to Madison. Mr. Bradley will make extensive excavations upon his farm in hopes of recovering the complete skeleton of the animal. The species cannot be ascertained from the bones at hand, but it is believed to be the remains of some monster which inhabited North America centuries ago, when glaciers plowed out what is now the Mississippi valley.

(Scripps-McRae Dispatch.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., July 6.—George V. Winter, a British military attaché, declares the American soldiers are the best formed and have the best bearing of all soldiers in the world. He says, if properly dressed, they would make an appearance unobtainable by any others.

is William Kniggie, a brother of John ed to make an effort to locate him.

Mrs. Robinson after going into her trance, said that his brother-in-law was straight west of here. She said:
"He is with some soldiers and is now marching, as I can hear the rubbing of his leggings."
Mr. Chalsma then wrote a letter to the war department as follows:

UNCLE SAM AND MEXICO IN- TERVENES IN GUATEMALA

Washington, July 6.—Again the United States will probably figure a peacemaker. Guatemala and Salvador are making overtures for the arbitration of their troubles resulting from the alleged activity of Salvador in support of the revolutionary movement against President Cabrera, of Guatemala, and it is likely that the United States will be selected as the court in which the board of arbitration will meet. The state department has inadvised of the desire of the two countries, which are almost at the point of making war against each other to have their differences settled by arbitration, and although formal negotiations have not been made as yet, it seems to be but little doubt that an amicable settlement of the point of difference will be finally effected through arbitrators.

Uncle Sam Prevents Meddling.
At the first intimation of outside interference in Guatemalan affairs the state department sent the Marthhead from Panama to prevent meddling and Mexico and the United States both made it clear that they would look disfavor upon any combination of Central American powers to overthrow President Cabrera, of Guatemala.
When the position of the United States became clear Salvador announced the appointment of J. R. Paez as a special envoy to present the Salvadoran position to United States authorities and prevent any serious international complication. The state department has been advised of the departure of Paez for this country, but is not believed that he will arrive in Washington for several weeks, because of difficulty of reaching this country from Salvador.

Guatemala Complain.
Guatemala has complained bitterly to the United States of the conduct of Salvador, and charges that he latter government has taken every means to forward the cause of the revolutionary general, Barillas, and to listen to the downfall of President Cabrera. It is charged that Salvador not only winked at all expeditions which crossed her boundary into Guatemalan territory, but actually sent troops to Guatemalan and committed many acts which cannot be regarded as less than the invasion of the territory of a friendly power.

No Raid on Taggart's Hotel.

"There has been no raid, nor attempted raid, upon the French Lick Springs hotel, nor has such a thing been thought of, save by Mr. Hearst and his correspondents. A building owned by the French Lick Springs company, wholly disconnected from the hotel property, was leased to a party to be used for billiards and bowling alley with a strong clause against gambling in the lease. After a time this tenant permitted gambling. We brought suit for possession on the ground of the breach of that provision in the lease, and recovered judgment. He appealed the case, and it is pending for trial in the present term of court.

Does Not Tolerate Gambling.

"The state authorities have supplemented our efforts to recover possession by raiding that building, and that is all there is to the grossly sensational publications in which The World has placed credence. The French Lick Springs hotel has not and will not tolerate gambling in any form on its premises. This is attested by the court records, which show our efforts to suppress it, and it is well known to Mr. Hearst, who with such knowledge continues the publication of his vindictive and libelous falsehoods. I regret that The World has seen fit to dignify these atrocious falsehoods by editorial mention. The proposition that I should resign is preposterous. It deserves and will receive no attention."

Is This the Cause of Attack.

Attention is called by intimate friends of Taggart, who are usually authorized to speak for him, to the fact that on June 7 the Indiana Democratic state convention unanimously endorsed W. J. Bryan for the presidential nomination, and that the attacks on Taggart have followed this action, which was followed by the influence of National Chairman Taggart.

RED MEMBER OF DOUMA IS HIMSELF HOWLED DOWN

St. Petersburg, July 6.—M. Alladin, the most irrepressible of the reds in the lower house of parliament, was forced to leave the tribune while denouncing the government in his usual wild manner. He was repeatedly called to order by the president of the deputies, and was more violent, if possible, than ever before. Sidelinkoff, a "red" Cossack member, had got himself arrested by his violent harangue addressed to a crowd, in which he excited the people to resist the police, and generally conducted himself as a member of parliament should not. Moreover, when taken to the police station a revolver was found on his person.

Complaints of His Arrest.

When he reached the floor yesterday he proceeded to give his version and he moved an interpellation of the minister of the interior on the violation in his (Sidelinkoff's) case of the inviolability of the persons of members of parliament. It was after he had closed that Alladin opened fire, and after he had been suppressed by an unprecedented tumult—in this parliament—against his violence, Interior Minister Stolypin ascended the tribune to reply to Sidelinkoff.

Minister Stolypin Explains.

He explained, amid constant interruptions from the left, that the chief of police had telephoned him Wednesday night regarding the incident, but his account differed so widely from that given by M. Sidelinkoff that he must have further time for investigation. The minister, however, gave the house his personal assurance that ample measures would be taken to assure the inviolability of members, and if the police were guilty in this case they would be punished. The statement of M. Stolypin was greeted with cries from the left of "Resign and take the chief of police with you," which finally compelled the minister to cease speaking. In spite of this M. Stolypin's frank manner for the first time provoked a counter-demonstration in favor of the government. The interpellation was adopted.

BIALYSTOK REPORT READ

Stechepkin Finds That the Authorities Were Criminally Wrong.

Another feature of the session was the presentation by Stechepkin of his report on the Bialystok riot. He made a preliminary speech in which he said that Stolypin's measures were inefficient in the early stages of the riot and that Police Lieutenant Sheremetieff and "other organizers of the rioting at Bialystok" acted under secret inspiration and influences more powerful than the minister, plainly indicating General Trepoff, although his name was not mentioned.

Stechepkin declared that the evidence obtained proved the following facts: First, that no religious race prejudice existed to warrant the riot; second, that the rioting was deliberately prepared by accusing the Jews of being revolutionists; third, that the day of the riot was announced in advance by the authorities; fourth, that the administration and the troops acted lawlessly in permitting the systematic killing of peaceful Jews, including women and children, under the guise of suppressing a revolution, and that six of the military and civil authorities not only assisted, but participated, in murders, tortures and robbery.

In conclusion Stechepkin presented the recommendation of the commission that Interior Minister Stolypin and War Minister Rudiger be interpellated, asking if steps have been taken to prosecute the guilty civil and military officials.

Dispatches received here from Samara state that two regiments garrisoning that important provincial capital have mutinied and presented a series of political and service demands. The officers promised to satisfy the service demands if the mutineers would return to duty, but the men replied that they would be satisfied only with compliance with all of their demands. The situation is complicated by the fact that in Samara the revolutionists are pushing a movement to proclaim a republic in case a general strike is declared and may seize the present opportunity to further their aims.

Conductor Peck was discharged soon after the wreck. He had never recovered from injuries received in the accident.

In the wreck Joseph Maher and Albert Burnish were killed. Conductor Peck was unconscious several days. He leaves a wife and three children.

ASK PARDON FOR BANKER BIGELOW

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., July 6.—Application, it is said, will be made to President Roosevelt that he grant a pardon to Frank G. Bigelow, the former Milwaukee banker, now serving a sentence in the federal prison here, on the ground that the prisoner's health is failing.

Mrs. Bigelow and her son left after visiting the prisoner. Their visit is said to have been in connection with the application for a pardon.

COL. BRYAN HAS "BROADENED."

Col. William Jennings has "broadened." It is said so. It is said because he has become a habit with those who find opportunity to repeatedly "broadened"; he wouldn't be much of a man if he didn't. But he never was in as much need of "broadening" as the little fry speakers who have presumed to copy him and indulged in by one or two men big enough to take stock of his dimensions and advisedly assert that it is true that the of "broadened."

Nefn Col. Bryan "broadened" one cannot say. When first he was a doer, a dozen years ago, he was "broad" enough to preach a doctrine that was then branded as rank heresy and anarchy and popery who now learnedly paraphrase his teachings of those days to them to an indulgent public as original inspiration. And still, intelligent man must do, Mr. Bryan has "broadened." A notable of his "breadth" of view was given in his address before the La Crosse Society in London, on the occasion of the Independence day dinner. His theme carried him away above politics, above partyism, above party and cents affairs. It carried him beyond sectarian religion, beyond race—it carried him to HUMANITY.

If in the midst of this ponderous discussion of the most recent occurrences in which the "Orator of the Platte" became conspicuous a detraction to a less heart-racking incident is permissible, we beg to introduce a moment an incident illustrating most amusingly the brilliancy and source for which the esteemed tourist is celebrated. Preceding Col. Bryan in the talkfest, Ambassador Whitelaw Reid took advantage of his reduction of his countryman to make the following remarks:

At home, as a citizen, I have openly and squarely opposed him at every stage of his conspicuous career. I am reasonably sure that when I return home I shall continue to do the same. I believe he tonight is as well satisfied as I am, though by different reasoning, that the country we both love and try to serve has not been ruined by its gold.

Abroad, as the official representative of the American people, without distinction as to party, I am glad to welcome him here as a typical American, whose whole life has been lived in the daylight and one whom such a great host of my countrymen have long trusted and honored.

How apt the self-adulating diplomat to "rush in where wise men fear to tread!" How side-splitting and conclusive the quick retort of the of The Commoner! The guests had laughed with Mr. Reid at Mr. Bryan's expense; they had a real laugh a moment later. Were some of men who are willing to concede that Mr. Bryan has "broadened" and in an attic with pen and parchment for a fortnight, they could not be begun to equal the reply that flashed from the expanding reformer the spur of the moment. Col. Bryan said:

The temptation to make a political speech is strong within me. I have not had a chance to do so for ten months. However, I will restrain myself. With reference to the ambassador's remarks on gold, I wish to say that when I see the progress my country has made walking on one leg I wonder what it would have done walking on two legs. It is pleasing to testify that the ambassador not only has fought me but that he has done it well. No American rejoices more than I that he is 3,000 miles from his base. While abroad I have met many good republicans—holding office—and I only wish there were enough offices abroad to take the republicans out of the country.

But to return to the subject—the heavy subject—Col. Bryan dealt with humanity in its broadest sense when he discussed "The White Man's Burden" before that brilliant assemblage. He went beyond the ties of men and the ambitions of nations to the duty of civilized nations toward the less favored peoples to whom evolution has not brought enlightenment. He preached the gospel of Christian benevolence as applied to nations. For his text he quoted the first stanza of King's poem with the title of which he captioned his address, reciting we can imagine him reciting:

Take up the white man's burden—
In patience to abide,
To veil the threat of terror
And check the show of pride,
By open speech and simple,
An hundred times made plain,
To seek another's profit,
And work another's gain.

As one reads the words of lofty purpose uttered in behalf of the dirty-faced brother nations, there may have been recalled the words of King:

" * * * * * No life
Can be pure in its purpose and strong in its strife,

And all life not be purer and stronger thereby."

It was this thought which Lord Litton applied to men, that Col. Bryan applied to the associations of men which we call states. He taught the doctrine of example. He pictured the reaching out of nations in learning, charity, forbearance under provocation, Christianity. But these things, he said, were incidents. He urged a more positive method of educating and elevating the inferior states. And he suggested a means of averting war that, in the end, put it up to the manliness of nations to determine controversies without bloodshed. Is not this idea of Col. Bryan's deeper, saner, more important than could have been the political speech which he told Ambassador Reid he refrained from making? Is it not nearer the dissolution of all war clouds than anything The Hague or the women's clubs have produced? While its simplicity reminds one of the great invention that "anyone could have thought of," but that none but the inventor did think of, is not this idea close to the solution of the vexed problem of attaining universal and lasting peace? Here is all there is in it, and sober thought will lead to the conclusion that there is a great deal in it:

I venture to suggest that the world's peace would be greatly promoted by an agreement among the leading nations that no declaration of war should be made until the submission of the question in controversy to an impartial court for investigation, each nation reserving the right to accept or reject the decision. The preliminary investigation would, in almost every instance, insure an amicable settlement and the reserved rights would be a sufficient protection against any possible injustice.

We agree with the little windjammers who say that Col. Bryan has "broadened." But it is not in his ideas of American politics that he has "broadened"; he has grown less than anywhere, waiting for the crowds to catch up to him. It is in the development of such simple and convincing and benevolent ideas as found in "The White Man's Burden," that we think Col. Bryan has "broadened."

"SUPPOSE."

Because a certain trust-owned and usually-damned publication hereabout has been to the extent of its limited capacity celebrating the Milwaukee Free Press as a libelous newspaper language for the sufficient vilification of which it cannot afford, we are inclined to publish a somewhat ill-advised defense offered by the Free Press.

The editorial of the Free Press is entitled, "Suppose." We suppose the Free Press supposed it had been attacked by a journal to which argument would appeal, although it: (the Free Press) reference to the La Crosse paper as kindred to its own morning contemporary belies the supposition. We suppose it is because the Free Press has been active in fighting corporate greed and monopolistic dishonesty that it was attacked by the La Crosse newspaper, which says it is supporting the hand of Senator La Follette and breathes a warm regard for Charley Pfister. We are of the opinion that if the editorial writer of the Free Press will collaborate with his associate, "Bill" Powell, he may produce something sufficiently offensive and aggressive to silence the La Crosse trust organ, without inviting libel suits. In fact, by sticking to truths of a sensational character he could provide his paper an insurance policy against legal reprisals. The editorial of the Free Press follows:

There is a paper out in La Crosse that tries to fill the same niche in its town that the Sentinel fills in Milwaukee. It doesn't like the Free Press, which it says would "slander anyone for pay," and which is conducted by "irresponsible libelers." It says that the recent examinations of witnesses before Commissioner Roehr have shown a conspiracy to "do up" a reputable citizen whose only offense seems to have been a disposition to think for himself, although there has not been a particle of testimony in all the testimony of all the witnesses to show any conspiracy of any kind against any "reputable citizen," or anyone else.

Suppose a public contract had been awarded in the city of La Crosse to the lowest bidder, for electric lighting, or pavement, or garbage disposal. Suppose, after the contract was awarded, the highest bidder should put up a fund of $10,000 or $25,000, or any such sum, in the hands of a "reputable citizen" to be expended in getting the lowest bidder out of the way and in getting the contract for the highest bidder; and suppose that the fact of this fund should be kept secret from the common council and from the public, and that the lowest bidder should thereupon get a release from his contract by falsely swearing that he only sought release because he could not carry out his contract and that he had received no money and expected no money. And suppose the "reputable citizen," who had paid him $10,000 or $25,000, or any such sum, kept still all this time, knowing the man was lying and knowing that he could not get release from his contract and his bond if the facts were known; and knowing, too, that if he did get release the city would have to pay $50,000, or $75,000, or $100,000 more for the service from the highest bidder.

Suppose several years afterward a charge should be made by the highest bidder that the stakeholder had not accounted for this secret fund of $10,000 or $25,000, or whatever it was, and in defending himself from that charge, the stakeholder should be obliged to disclose the fact, long concealed, that there had been a secret fund and that this fund, or a part of it, had been expended in a conspiracy to defraud the city.

Would the stakeholder have been true to his duty as a citizen in holding or disposing of such a fund for such a purpose? Would a newspaper be true to the public interest it professes to serve, or would it have been in the interest of public policy if the facts, when disclosed, were suppressed? And is a newspaper to be called a villifier of a reputable citizen because it prints the reputable citizen's own explanation of what the highest bidder himself calls a "nasty transaction?"

JUST LIFE

It is vigorously denied that any alcohol is being sold this week.

Criminals and Influence

And now "on account of failing health," President Roosevelt is to be asked to pardon Frank G. Bigelow, the Milwaukee defaulter. It is to be remembered that Bigelow once entertained Roosevelt in Milwaukee and that his friends are influential politicians including Quarles, Spooner, Pfister, et al. Dear reader, how soon would Roosevelt pardon you if you were serving time for stealing a million dollars?

We have nothing but compassion for criminals. We have no desire to see anyone tortured. The "eye for an eye" doctrine ever seemed cruel.

But let Frank G. Bigelow serve his sentence. Let him suffer for his crime as the bread thief would have to suffer.

Who ever heard of a pardon granted to a man who stole a loaf to keep his family from starving.

Bigelow stole millions from widows and poor people who trusted him. Now let our illustrious president remember the constitution and the equality of mankind under it.

And let him turn a deaf ear to the "petitions" to pardon Bigelow, who is growing fat and healthy on prison fare, "because of failing health."

La Follette says Roosevelt is the only man who can defeat W. J. Bryan for the presidency. But "Teddy" has declined.

Next time La Crosse goes to Freeport the team might take the local militia along.

Houser denies he offered a bribe. How peculiar.

"Leader-Press" seems sorter like stealing "Billy" Finch's thunder, for "Billy" always did lead the Press when he was in the business.

"A man who will desert his family, celebrate it by getting drunk, then deny his identity, deserves seventeen years in the pen," remarked a business man today.

Yes, of course, The Tribune published the only complete record of the shooting tournament.

La Crosse advertisers are not slow to appreciate reaching 20,000 readers daily through the La Crosse Tribune.

La Crosse now has an opportunity to hear some real music.

BUSINESS ASSOCIATES GIVE OLE STOREY DIAMOND RING

As a token of their esteem the business associates of Ole Storey, formerly of this city, presented the departing president a diamond ring with a letter of appreciation upon his retirement from the presidency of the Allen-Nelson Mill company of Monahan, Wash.

The letter follows:

Our Dear Storey:
As vice president of our company, it devolves upon me to offer you this evening, in the name of those, your friends, gathered here, a slight token of regard and esteem.

To myself it is a source of great pleasure to be made the mouthpiece on this occasion, since my sincere delight may make some amends for my shortcomings.

Your high character, sense of honor, integrity and zeal have not only won the esteem and confidence of us, your friends, and those brought into immediate contact with you, but have radiated far and wide so that you have reached a position that you may justly be proud of; and one that is a credit not only to yourself but to the entire Pacific coast.

This little gift we offer is of no intrinsic value but it is rich in friendship, gratitude and respect. Please accept it and with it our united thanks and hopes that your life may be happy as ours has been, since we have had the distinctive pleasure of being your business associates and friends.

Your well wishers,

WORK OF REMODELING THE BAPTIST CHURCH IS BEGUN

The work on the changes to the audience room of the First Baptist church started this morning. The plans adopted by the official board call for the building of two additional exits, the rearrangement of the main vestibule, the upholstering of the pews and a complete redecorating of the main auditorium. The contracts for the work were let this week. F. R. Schwalbe will have charge of the wood work, R. L. Kenyon will re-finish the pews, and the G. Anderson company will do the decorating. About $2,000 will be expended on the repairs.

During the time this work is being done the Baptists will worship at the Masonic temple. The beautiful assembly room at the temple has been rented and the regular morning preaching service and Sunday school will be held there. The Masons are more than realizing the service they have rendered the community by the erection of their attractive home. The first services of the Baptists in the temple will occur next Sunday morning.

this right is not constitutional, basing their claims on the grounds that it is always the city saloonkeepers who violate the law and the costs of fighting the cases in courts are charged to the general county fund.

It is argued by the farmers who will make an appeal to the state's attorney general, that inasmuch as cities have ordinances governing the liquor dealers and inasmuch as all the revenues resultant from the issuance of liquor licenses are placed in the coffers of the cities the latter instead of the county must be made to bear the burden of the litigation.

SEEKS WINONA LOCATION FOR PLANT

G. A. Andrus, general manager of the La Crosse Rubber Mills company, was in Winona Tuesday in consultation with Secretary George W. Gregory of the board of trade concerning a location, says the Winona Independent today. The company when it moves is likely to enlarge its plant, already of considerable size.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

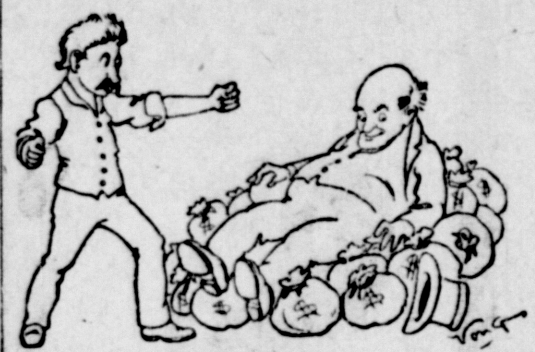

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

The self made man probably did it by hot air pressure.

When the devil gives us credit he looks after the collateral himself.

A crank is a genius out of place.

Reward is the only virtue some things have.

A bank account is much better than a cement walk to fall back upon.

The case is hopeless when a man's friends tell him that he can tell a funny story.

Fiction has this advantage over fact: You don't have to lie about it to make it interesting.

There's not so much difference between good disposition and good digestion.

A ferment is the result of indulging in forbidden fruit, and an explosion is apt to follow.

People who have gone to the devil testify that he is a wise old guy and can beat the best.

The less you confide in your friends the more you tie the hands of your enemies.

While wisdom waits upon experience nerve gets there and delivers the goods.

They Come Together.

Sure.
I folded a big rainstorm.
Of course
You may say
It is no credit to me,
Having had
Much experience
And been at it for years,
But, then,
I rather pride myself
On being able
To always make the connection.
I, the first picnic of the season,
Can pick them out
Three miles away
And lure the gentle wind storm
To come and wet down the occasion
Just to start things right.
Oh, I am a smooth one!
In the morning
The sun is shining
As though it had never done
Anything else
In its life.
While the weather predictions
Read like a chapter
From a dream book.
That is just my way
Of getting the victims
To put on their white dresses,
Their straw hats
And their duck pants.
I have a breeze made to order
For the first day.
And I stand around
And grin
To see the suckers
Fall into the trap.
Thus I get them disarmed
And engaged in innocent sport,
And then the fun begins.
A mild dust laying shower?
NIT.
If I don't show them a good imitation of the flood
Call at the office and get your money back.
For that is a sign
I am not the first picnic.

Knew Her Kind.

"I can't wait on that woman. I am feeling weak this morning," exclaimed the shoe clerk.
"What's that got to do with it?" asked the manager.
"She says she always wears a shoe three sizes too big, so it will need a strong man to pull on the one she finally selects."

Interfering With Their Amusements.

Some large, healthy gentlemen who inhabit Panama, or, rather, infest it, having learned the trade of the revolutionist in early life and being unable to shift to the more prosaic work of making hats, feel aggrieved in their souls because Uncle Sam, who has unanimously elected himself their guardian, refuses to allow them to indulge in their former amusement.

No matter how hard the revolution germ may bite, the bark of Uncle Sam's big guns is such a powerful antidote that the victim hesitates and concludes to take it out in dark looks.

It is rather hard for a proud people to alter their modes of life just to please an entire stranger, but some day civilization may swoop down on them and establish the political caucus, and they will never know the difference.

Couldn't Use Them.

"I hear that Jesty, the humorist, is married."
"Fine chance to buy a job lot of mother-in-law jokes at bargain rates."

Needed Treatment.

Some form of civic agony
It seems had struck the town;
At least it trembled in its "joints"
Because the lid was down.

BLATZ BEER

MILWAUKEE

Quality—Individuality—Purity—

The Quality of the Malt decides the body of a beer. Blatz Malt is produced in the brewery's own malt house by trained Malsters (years in Blatz service). "Not only how much malt—but how good" is here the inviolable rule. This method is expensive, but the desired result is always achieved—the vital ingredients of the malt are thereby brought out and retained. To the Blatz malt is due the prevailing full-bodied state of Blatz Beer.

The Hops used in the brewing of Blatz Beer are rich in aromatic properties and tonics (hopbitters), which lend to the beer that fragrance which captivates lovers of the beverage. The tonics act as a mild stimulant to the digestion. Blatz Beer is perfectly fermented and ripened in the coldest and cleanest cellars extant.

The most skilled masters zealously guard "Blatz" individuality. The paramount object being to maintain with absolute uniformity every characteristic that has these many years meant Blatz Quality.

PRIZE FIGHTER NEARLY KILLED

LaSalle, Ill., July 6.—Young Charlie Greenburg, a Chicago pugilist, is lying at St. Mary's hospital in this city hovering between life and death as the result of a terrible beating administered here in a ten-round prize fight with Eddie Tancel, another Chicago pugilist. Greenburg stayed the ten rounds on his gameness, and because of his clever footwork, but when the fight was over he collapsed on reaching his corner and has been unconscious ever since.

He is suffering from concussion of the brain, and the doctors have but slight hope of his recovery. Tancel and his manager, Kid Howard, are under arrest awaiting the outcome. If Greenburg dies they, together with the management of the club under the auspices of which the bout was fought, will be held for manslaughter.

PROGRAM "GRAFT"

Chicago, July 6.—Lawyers from all sections of the state will gather at the Chicago Beach hotel July 12 and 13 to discuss graft, municipal ownership, the new primary law, court decisions, recent acts of the general assembly, the municipal court of Chicago and to have a big dinner. All this will be just among the attorneys. No one else will be allowed to file an objection and there will be no appeal. The occasion will be the thirtieth annual meeting of the Illinois Bar association. The organization has about 1,000 members.

George T. Page, of Peoria, is president, and Harrison Musgrave, E. P. Williams, of Galesburg, and Robert McCurdy are vice presidents. James Hagerman, of St. Louis, will deliver the annual address. Judge Carter will speak on "The supreme court," in which he soon will take his seat. "Graft," of which many of the lawyers have read in the newspapers, will be discussed by the entire organization.

BELL WITH A HISTORY

Greenfield, Ind., July 6. — Montgomery Marsh, of this city, has presented the bell that hung in the old court house steeple to the Presbyterian church. The bell was bought by the county commissioners in 1853, and it hung in the court house until the building was torn down in 1896. It was then offered for sale as junk.

Marsh opposed this disposition of a bell that had tolled the death of Lincoln. Grant, Garfield and other noted men, and which called the county to arms when Fort Sumter was fired upon. The bell was then presented to Marsh, who loaned it to the city as a curfew bell. The older people of the city are wonderfully attached to the old relic.

Games Tomorrow.

Eau Claire at La Crosse.
Freeport at Oshkosh.
Wausau at Green Bay.

There is no doubt that Freeport is a "hoodoo" town for the La Crosse champions, and that La Crosse is a "hoodoo" for the Freeporters. That two of the best teams in the league should lose with such regularity when playing in each other's home cities certainly indicates the truth of this. La Crosse lost three straight at Freeport.

Yesterday Freeport won 6 to 2. Konetchy hit what should have been a home run, bringing in two men, but Gardner for the Freeporters, hurled the fence after it and prevented Konetchy getting home.

The home team comes here tomorrow to open a series with Eau Claire. A large delegation of Eau Claire fans will be here for the series and will accompany the local team to Eau Claire where another series of four games will be played with the Eau Claire-Chippewa Falls aggregation.

Score: R. H. E.
Freeport 2 2 0 0 0 2 0 0—6 11 0
La Crosse 0 0 0 0 0 2 0 0—2 6 1

Eau Claire, 6; Wausau, 5
WAUSAU, Wis., July 6.—Wausau lost yesterday to Eau Claire one of the best finished games played here this season. The beginning was poor, but in the sixth inning, after Eau Claire had tied the score, both teams settled down and for nine innings neither side scored. The score:

Score: R. H. E.
Eau C. 100 004 000 000 1—6 9 9
Wausau 401 000 000 000 0—5 12 5
Batteries—Freitag and Karel; Gasper and Templeton. Umpire—Hoffmann.

Oshkosh, 4; Green Bay, 3
GREEN BAY, Wis., July 6.—Oshkosh made it three out of four in the series here by taking yesterday's game by a score of 4 to 3. Ryan, the new left fielder, made his initial appearance in a Green Bay uniform. Score: R. H. E.
Green Bay 0 0 0 1 0 0 2 0—3 6 3
Oshkosh 0 0 0 0 0 4 0 0—4 7 2
